Judge McAdam Orders Naturalization Papers Destroyed.

Then He Refused to Hear a Divorce Case Set Down for To-Day.

Consternation in Superior Court, Where He Relieved Judge Dugro.

Judge McAdam was in no very pleasant frame of mind to-day when he was called upon to sit in the Special Term of the Superior Court in place of Judge Dugro, who was unable to be present on account of illness. The Judge last Summer announced that he would not again pass upon the final papers of applicants for naturalization. To-day he reiterated this determination, and clinched his remarks by ordering a court officer to tear up the papers in the case.

Shortly after court opened, John T. Kelly presented his application and asked the Judge to sign it.

"I won't naturalize any one," said the Judge.

Officer James Wallace was ordered to destroy the preliminary application papers. He hesitated to obey, and Judge McAdam said:

"Tear up those papers."

To the astonishment of Mr. Kelly and a crowd of attorneys and court attendants, Wallace obeyed the Court's order.

"I don't propose to naturalize any one. The State courts should have nothing to do with naturalization. It is the business of the United States Court."

The Judge then instructed Mr. Kelly to go to the United States Court.

After quiet had been restored, Lawyer Benjamin Oppenheimer, addressing Judge McAdam, said:

"Your Honor, I appear in the suit of Minnie Schlobach against Adolph Schlobach. The inquest was set down for to-day."

"I won't hear it," said the Judge.

"I am only appearing to-day for Judge Dugro, and am not going to take up divorce cases and have published three times a week."

Mr. Oppenheimer picked up his papers and left the court-room.

UNLUCKY MR. O'BRIEN.

His Drunk Cost Him Two Accidents in One Night.

Michael O'Brien saw the inside of two hospitals last night while he was intoxicated. He also received two scalp wounds within four hours. At 8 o'clock O'Brien, who is fifty years old, and lives at 1330 Third avenue, was standing on the rear platform of a Third avenue cable car.

When it stopped at One Hundred and First street O'Brien fell, and his head struck the step of the car. He got a slight scalp wound. He was taken to the Harlem Hospital, and protested so loudly he was allowed to go.

At 11 o'clock O'Brien was asked to get an ambulance to take a man to the Presbyterian Hospital who had been killed at Eleventh street and Third avenue. He had sustained a severe scalp wound. It was Michael O'Brien, who was intoxicated, who was asked to get the ambulance.

O'Brien is now in the Presbyterian Hospital.

"TREATED LIKE HOGS."

So Said Lawyer House Speaking of Recorder Goff's Court.

When Max Hochstetler, who assaulted Henry Freudenthal last September in front of the Essex Market Court, was called before Recorder Goff this morning, Lawyer Frederick Bingham House stood by him. Mr. House said he did not know just what rights lawyers had in the court-room, as they were huddled about, and there was a pen and were treated like hogs.

The Recorder responded:

"This is a small room, and there are not sufficient chairs to accommodate everyone. Until some one can do something about it, which you speak must be tolerated."

Hochstetler's trial was set down for Feb. 11.

Another House on the Track.

SOLOMONVILLE, Jan. 31.—The shanty placed by P. Sullivan on the track of the Erie, Globe and Northern Railway, was removed by the Company's employees, and Sullivan, when he appeared before Justice Parks to answer the charge of placing obstructions on a railroad track, a grave offense under Arizona statutes, obtained a continuance until Friday. When the train arrived at Sullivan's ranch yesterday afternoon, he was ordered to remove the track. Sullivan forbade any one to touch it.

The letter accompanying the money stated that for years the sender had not paid his just taxes on personal estate, and inclined the treasurer rightly due the city. There is no clue to the sender.

Towler's Souvenir Bullet.

Dr. J. A. Irwin, of 119 West Twenty-third street, performed an operation last night on C. T. Towler, the wealthy shoe manufacturer, who recently attempted to commit suicide at the St. Francis Hotel, but was unable to extract the bullet. Dr. Irwin says the bullet will likely remain in the man's back, as he is in a very bad way, and Dr. Irwin cannot undertake instant death. It is possible Towler may recover.

Now the Tramps Must Go.

The returns received at Police Headquarters this morning indicate that a concerted raid was made upon tramps throughout the city last night. The number of arrests, including station-house prisoners, was 102.

This Hogger Was Well Fixed.

Aged J. B. Brewster, of Carriage Fame, Seours a Girl Wife.

Quietly Driven to Minister McNicholl, Who Ties the Knot.

A Widower a Short Time, Single Life Became Irksome.

James B. Brewster, senior member of the carriage-making firm of J. B. Brewster & Co., has taken unto himself a young wife. The exact age of the lady upon whom Mr. Brewster has placed his affections, and to whom he has given his name, is not known precisely, but the divine who married the couple three weeks ago, Rev. T. McNicholl, of the Beekman Hill Methodist Church, says the bride is about twenty-two years old. Mr. Brewster is about seventy-five years old, but does not look it.

The fact that a ceremony had been performed would not have been generally known had not a marriage notice been published this morning, which announced that Mr. Brewster had been married to Miss R. S. Schwartz, of Orange County, N. Y.

The couple were on a honeymoon somewhere, and even Mr. Brewster's friends can't tell exactly where.

Mr. Brewster and Miss Schwartz, the Orange County maiden, called at Dr. McNicholl's house one night, between 8 and 9 o'clock, three weeks ago. He arrived in a carriage, which was driven by a coachman in livery.

Dr. McNicholl's son, who is a physician, answered the bell. When he had ushered the visitors in, he noticed that the gentleman was old, but sprightly, and that the young woman was pretty, a blushing and dimpled.

"Why, I am Mr. Brewster," said the gentleman.

Young Mr. McNicholl called his father, who asked his visitor to identify himself.

"Why, I am Mr. Brewster, of the Brewster Carriage Company," he answered.

"Have you any witnesses, Mr. Brewster?"

It was finally concluded that young Mr. McNicholl would do as a witness, and the ceremony was performed.

After the young woman from Orange County had become Mrs. Brewster, her husband's oldest child, a boy, followed, said that his former married life had been such a happy one he could not resist the temptation which overcame him to marry again every time he was in Miss Schwartz's society.

The firm of Brewster & Co., whose warehouse is at 457 and 459 Fifth avenue, with a factory at 110 West Forty-third street, is a well-known firm in the United States, and manufactures the Brewster wagon, which has become famous.

James Brewster, the father of Mr. J. B. Brewster, started in business in 1828, when he was a direct descendant of Elder Brewster, who came over in the Mayflower in 1620. He was apprenticed to a carriage-maker and learned the trade thoroughly. Soon after 1827, abandoning his trade, with several New Haven friends, he started a road between New Haven and Hartford. He was an active worker in the enterprise until his death, and his son went into business with him.

Mr. Brewster lives at 181 West Seventy-seventh street, where his first wife has been dead only a short time.

EUCHRED THE SHERIFF.

"Count" Marshall's Sister Turned the Key on an Officer.

Assistant Deputy Sheriff Quigley and two other men went yesterday to the house in Recorder Goff's Court, 137 East Fifty-fifth street, with a warrant for the alleged nobleman's arrest.

Quigley, on entering the house, was locked in the drawing-room by Marshall's sister, while the "Count" made his escape through a back door.

Marshall came to America about four years ago, and has since then been involved in several more or less shady business and matrimonial affairs. He is now being sued for $20,000 in a breach of promise suit by Miss Catherine Smith, a Brooklyn girl.

BOTH WANT THEIR CHILDREN.

Rather Unpleasant Predicament of Justice O'Brien.

Must Decide Whether Father or Mother Has Greater Rights.

Justice O'Brien, in Supreme Court Chambers, to-day was called upon to decide between a father and mother as to the possession of their two children.

A few days ago, Sigmund Simon, a wealthy retired dry goods merchant, residing at One Hundred and Thirty-third street and Fifth avenue, obtained a writ of habeas corpus from Justice Van Brunt, compelling Mrs. Simon to produce in court Jennette Simon, nine years of age, and Emil T. Simon, six years of age. Simon charged that his wife left his home without cause and was illegally holding the children in restraint and forbidding him access to them.

Mrs. Simon admitted taking the children, but claimed she was forced to leave her husband because of his unreasonable conduct in interfering with the management of the household.

In the complaints, charges and counter charges, it appeared that Mrs. Simon took umbrage because her husband charged a French maid while Mrs. Simon was absent, and she refused to return to her husband unless he would agree to acknowledge her presence in the household.

In court this morning the attorney for Mrs. Simon opposed a reference, on the ground that the wife had no right to take the children, and that the husband was entitled to have them.

The husband's attorney, on the other hand, contended that the wife had no right to take the children, and that the husband was entitled to have them.
